Increase in tuition seen

Proposals for tuition increases at Southern Illinois University were considered Thursday by the SIU Board of Trustees. The proposals will be submitted to the board for action at the March 13 meeting of the trustees on the local campus.

The recommendations aired at Carbondale include tuition increases of $48 per academic year for resident students.

In addition, tuition increases of $30 for resident dentistry students and $110 for resident medical students are proposed.

University officers said the proposals are the result of Illinois Board of Higher Education budget recommendations for the 1980-81 fiscal year, approved by the IBHE at its Jan. 8 meeting.

The recommendations for public universities provide for an increase of $68 million, of which about $7.5 million is to be provided through tuition income must be generated by the SIU system.

In December, the IBHE approved a new tuition policy which establishes the 1979-80 (fiscal 1980) tuition rates as the standard for the future, with adjustments for inflationary cost increases to be made annually to maintain the level of tuition.

The policy states specifically: "The level of tuition charged in years following FY 80 should be based on the current level, adjusted for changes in costs based upon relevant economic indicators, including the Higher Education Price Index."

The policy also stipulates that undergraduate tuition rates for Illinois residents should not exceed one-third of instructional costs in the respective university systems.

The policy recommends that whenever undergraduate tuition in public universities is increased, the appropriation for Illinois State Scholarship Commission monetary awards should be increased by the amount necessary to offset the impact of the tuition increase on financially needy students.

Students in the SIU system who are non-residents of Illinois are charged three times the resident rate.

Current undergraduate tuition rates for Illinois residents per academic year are: SIUC — $467; SIUC School of Dental Medicine — $1,035; SIUC — $574; SIUC School of Medicine — $1,390.

an emergency meeting with company personnel early this morning.

A spokesman declined to confirm reports that the union had taken a strike authorization vote Thursday.

The spokesman had said Friday afternoon that negotiations on a new agreement to the auto frame plant were continuing "hot and heavy" at that time.

A company official said this morning, "I don't think we are at any point for discussion, now."

The Auto Workers national president, Douglas Fraser, was in Japan last week to urge voluntary or binding export limits or construction of Japanese car assembly plants in the U.S. He warned against excessive U.S. reliance on foreign producers, pointing out that large numbers of jobs are at stake.

There have been employment cut-backs at many U.S. auto plants and suppliers due to slumping sales of domestic-made cars.

The local Smith plant makes frames for medium and full-size autos, the chief victims of sales slippage associated with rising gasoline costs and uncertainties over fuel availability.

two-year terms, resigning to accept appointment as a Third Circuit judge in September 1975. He was elected to a six-year term as a circuit judge in 1976 and will remain on the Third Circuit bench if his bid for the appellate seat is unsuccessful.

Urged by many lawyers to run for appellate judge, he is conducting an active campaign. He has experience in both civil and criminal trial work and as a court administrator (chief judge).

Calvo also cites his legislative experience, noting that Judge Eberspacher is a former member of the General Assembly.

He and his wife, Josephine, have four children. He is a past president and treasurer of the Tri-City Bar Association.

A World War II veteran, Judge Calvo is a past president of the Granite City Democratic Club.

Waller, 55, an attorney for 30 years, may prove to be the Madison County candidate's chief rival for the Fifth Appellate District post, political observers say.

A native East St. Louisan, he began his law practice there and now maintains his law office and home in Belleville.

He has had extensive trial experience, and has appeared before the U.S. Supreme Court, U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Illinois State Supreme Court and Illinois Appellate Court. He served as a special assistant attorney general under Attorney General William G. Clark, who is now a member of the Illinois Supreme Court.

Fight by St. Louis for GM plant

Missourians have been helping Illinoisans try to lure a Datsun auto plant to the area of Interstate 270 and Ill. Route Three. Now, some Illinois officials are helping St. Louisans try to hold onto the General Motors assembly plant at Union Avenue and Natural Bridge.

GM is planning to close its St. Louis plant, whose 1,712 Illinois employees include 173 residing in Granite City, 480 in East St. Louis and 169 in Belleville.

The company wants to build a new auto plant in Wentzville, Mo., 35 miles west of St. Louis. But St. Louis Mayor James Conway says this would eliminate a tenth of his city's tax base—and that 10,700 employees having to drive farther to and from work would use an extra five million gallons of costly gasoline each year.

The Collinsville Herald said editorially Thursday that Illinois Governor James R. Thompson—along with seeking a Japanese auto plant—ought to push for locating a General Motors plant at 270-3.

Conway spoke to two dozen Illinois officials Saturday morning at Fairview Heights and obtained general support for his effort to persuade GM to stay in north St. Louis. He said Illinois communities would be "severely impacted" if the plant closes as scheduled.

The mayor conceded that the odds are against success, but called on all to ask their congressmen to exert pressure. Mascoutah Mayor LeRoy Perrotti said he was impressed by Conway's presentation and believes that the plant closing would be "a tremendous loss for this whole area."

Conway said the city favors a 400-acre tract along the Mississippi River in north St. Louis if the company won't change its decision that the existing plant is too old and obsolete.

He said the city would prepare the site and sell it to GM for the same price the company would pay for a Wentzville site. Perrotti suggested that St. Louis "just give them the land."

More sessions on home data

More visits to the office of Granite City Assessor Van Dee Cruise on the City Hall ground floor are scheduled this week.

Home owners in the area west of the center line of Nameoki Road, north of East 23rd Street (including E. 23rd) and north of the 24th Street parkway will confer with the assessing staff between 4:30 and 8 nightly—tonight, tomorrow,

Wednesday and Thursday.

The area to be reviewed this week takes in all territory northward to the city limits, including North Granite.

A spokesman said that home owners will be able to verify the accuracy of recorded information about their property. A special note is that those who have torn down garages since 1969 may wish to report that, especially if no building permit was issued for the razing.

Also to be checked are the size of the home, type of construction, lot size, basement, bathrooms, fireplaces, garage size, air-conditioning, and age of the home.

Revaluations for assessment purposes have been made and are to become final June 1.

3-year sentence in store burglary

Jerry Wayne Drennan, 19, of the 1000 block of Grand Avenue, Madison, has been sentenced to serve three years in prison after pleading guilty to a burglary which occurred Dec. 30 at Schermer Brothers Market, 12th Street and Madison Avenue, Madison. Drennan was sentenced by Circuit Judge Victor J. Mosele.

A co-defendant in that case, John David Miller, 18, St. Louis, was released on two years of probation. A second charge of felony theft against Miller was dismissed by Associate Judge John W. Day, who pronounced sentence on him. Drennan also was charged with two other counts of felony theft. A charge alleging theft from the Schermer burglary was dismissed, but Drennan pleaded guilty to a Nov. 27, 1979, theft and was sentenced by Judge Mosele to serve a concurrent three-year prison term.

County unable to find 'loophole' to help those double-taxed for sewers

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Despite orders from Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron to find some type of permanent relief for persons paying double for sanitary sewers, Assistant State's Attorney Don Smith told a group of about 20 Namooki Township residents last night that his research indicates there is no remedy within the law and the law will have to be changed before the inequity can be solved.

Byron told the Press-Record Monday that people who have been erroneously included in the taxing district for the new sewers in the county who already are being served by Granite City sewers are being unfairly treated by the county.

"It is just so unfair. I think they need extraordinary relief under the law," Byron said and pledged he would ask Smith, who is chief of the civil division for Byron's office, "to find some way out for these people. Something on a permanent basis, so they won't have to file tax objections year after year."

Smith attended last night's meeting of the Madison

County special sewer committee and discussed the various problems with the people present who felt they do not belong in the sewer taxing district.

He agreed to research the issue further and Engineer Ed Juneau agreed to give him specific details on the areas involved.

Smith suggested that someone approach the bonding attorneys for the project to be sure that detachment of some homes from the district would not adversely affect the bonds sold for the local share of the construction cost.

However, Smith said, after reading the law on special service areas, he could find no provision for detaching property and suggested the best approach for a legal remedy would be to go through the legislature for corrective legislation.

Some residents of Old Alton Road included in the taxing district, although they will not be served by the new county sewers, were successful in having a court detach their property from the district, but the same law cannot be used for those who already have sewers, Byron told the Press-Record.

"Those who are being taxed for sewers but will not receive them had relief under an 'impossibility of performance on behalf of the government' clause. That does not apply to those who already have sewers. We have to go on a different theory and Don Smith is working on that," Byron stated.

Those who already have sanitary sewers are not the only ones in the sewer taxing district who have objections, the committee was informed.

A letter was read from Walter "Dick" Sparks, supervisor of Chouteau Township and former chairman of the sewer committee, in which he said the proposed $10 per month flat rate to homeowners for sewage treatment and sewer operation and maintenance is unfair to low-income and elderly residents and to homes with only one or two persons.

Sparks suggested the committee return to the original idea of charging residents by the number of gallons used at each home. A figure of $2 per 1,000 gallons used was suggested when he was chairman. "This, in my understanding, is what the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency expected when they gave us the grant, stating that everyone would be treated equally, according to the amount of service received," the letter continued.

"I believe this would be much fairer and more equitable to all, and very much cheaper to small and lower income families which use little water, and families which conserve water due to financial condition," Sparks said in the letter.

The amount homes will have to pay for sewage treatment still is being debated between the sewer committee and Granite City, since treatment will take place at the city's treatment plant.

Representatives of both sides met yesterday, but failed to reach agreement on the controversial $10 per month surcharge the city wants to charge each home on the county sewer.

The surcharge is proposed to repay the money city residents already have spent retiring bonds on the sewage treatment plant, which was built larger than needed by the city with the understanding the county sewers would be using it.

Some progress was made at yesterday's meeting and the city officials offered to open the financial books to the sewer committee members for study and formulation of a counterproposal, the Press-Record has learned.

There was no discussion at last night's sewer committee meeting of the continuing negotiations with the city.

The committee also has been asked to reconsider its requirement that homeowners use six-inch pipe when connecting their homes to the new sanitary sewers. Sparks' letter contended that four-inch pipe would be adequate, while six-inch pipe costs twice as much to use.

Gold Watches Are For The Birds

Retire Rich With A Tax Sheltered Nest Egg

That gold watch they'll give you when you retire will give you time on your hands . . . and not much else. Build the retirement security you need with a tax-deferred IRA or KEOGH account from Granite City Bank.

If you're not covered at work . . . Put away up to $1500 or up to 15% of your yearly gross income (whichever is less) in a tax-sheltered retirement fund.

If you're self-employed . . . Put away up to $7500 or up to 15% of your yearly net income (whichever is less) in a tax-sheltered retirement fund.

Either way, the amount you add each year is tax free. And the high interest* we add is tax free, too. You will pay taxes on the money you withdraw, but you'll probably be retired and in a lower tax bracket then.

1979 Contribution may be made up to the date your 1979 Income Tax return is due in 1980.

Senate honors Barnes

An Illinois Senate resolution commending Press-Record Managing Editor Harry A. Barnes for his newspaper career of more than a half-century was presented to him Thursday at the Press-Record by State Senator Sam Vadalabene.

The occasion was Barnes' birthday. A cake was served and the gathering sang the birthday song.

An official copy of the resolution presented to the veteran journalist related that "it is the distinct privilege of the members of this body, the Illinois Senate, to honor Harry A. Barnes, managing editor of the Granite City, Ill., Press-Record newspaper on the fiftieth anniversary of the launching of his great newspaper career."

"The 50th anniversary of the Fourth Estate career coincided exactly with the fiftieth anniversary of the Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago of seven members of the George 'Bugs' Moran underworld gang by a fival gang in police uniforms Feb. 14, 1929.

"He has been a newspaper reporter, city editor and newspaper publisher during the past 50 years and is still going strong with no thought of retiring. He has become a legend in the reporting business in his own time as he has seen it all—from Dillinger, Capone, all the gangland wars of the '30s, the real war of the '40s, and our changing economics and life styles, right down to the present time.

"He started at age 15 as a reporter with the Decatur Review, and then joined the staff of the Decatur Herald in May 1933 when it merged with the Decatur Review.

"In 1936 he transferred to the East St. Louis Journal (another newspaper owned by the Review-Herald Company). In 1951 he left and started his own weekly, which he called 'The Progress.' Then, in June 1964, he joined the Press-Record staff in Granite City; in 1970, he was promoted to be its managing editor.

"He is an even-tempered man who was a boy scout, sea scout and scoutmaster, married his present wife, Esther, after his first wife passed away, and has seven children, six by his wife Esther.

"He has such a complete and pervasive knowledge of Illinois politics, particularly in Central Illinois and the Southern regions of the state, the inner workings of tax bodies, and the prominent figures of the regular world and the underworld that his business peers at times must feel as awed by him as we are; therefore, be it

"RESOLVED, by the Senate of the Eighty-first General Assembly of the State of Illinois, that we warmly congratulate and highly commend Harry A. Barnes, managing editor of the Granite City Press-Record newspaper, Granite City, Ill., upon his 50th anniversary Feb. 14, 1979, as a newspaper reporter, managing editor and publisher in Central Illinois; that we wish him many more years of sharing his talent and experience with the newspaper and with us, his avid readers; and be it further

"RESOLVED, that a suitable copy of this preamble and resolution be presented to Harry A. Barnes.

"ADOPTED by the Senate March 22, 1979.

"SIGNED Philip D. Rock, president of the Senate; Kenneth Wright, secretary of the Senate."

Sells—BETTER LIVING

By JOHN SCULLY

Many photo outlets are now saying they will have your pictures back to you in one day. At Fairmount Park, the photo finish of the horse race is developed in only 20 seconds.

The man behind the camera is Pete Gifford, who has been the photo finish man at Fairmount Park for over 15 years.

The English-born Gifford has been living in Collinsville for the past 20 years. Prior to that, he lived throughout the United States as well as in England.

Born and raised in London, he came to the United States at the age of fifteen in 1941.

The son of a vaudeville-type comic, he has definitely inherited some of his father's attributes, as he is one of the friendliest people you could ever want to meet.

Pete enrolled in the Harry Trotsek Jockey School in 1945. The school has had several big name riders emerge from its graduates. His mount came at historic Churchill Downs in 1947.

Later that year, he won his first race at the old Detroit Fairgrounds.

For the next six years, he traveled on the racing circuit of Churchill Downs, in Louisville, and at Detroit, Chicago and the Florida tracks, Hialeah, Tropical Park and Gulfstream Park during the winter.

For several years he rode for the Phil Bieber stables. Bieber, a fine trainer in his own right, was a brother-in-law of Hirsch Jacobs, 11-time national trainers' champion and the father of Patrice, who is now Patrice Jacobs Wolfson, the owner of Triple Crown winner Affirmed.

Pete Gifford continued to ride until hampered by injuries in 1954.

He then worked for the New York Racing Association in several positions, before going to Florida Downs, Tampa, where he became a camera man on the film patrol.

Beginning in 1959, Pete began working at both Fairmount Park and Cahokia Downs as the pan-camera man and as processor of the film.

The film patrol is now a thing of the past, as the film has been replaced by video tape, which makes it instantaneous for the stewards to observe the race.

Pete moved from the film patrol to the photo finish room in the early 1960s and has been there ever since.

Pete's job is to turn the cameras on as the horses are approaching the wire, and then develop it and make a print when the placing judges request one.

He has no say as to where the horses are determined to have finished; this job is done by the placing judges.

Pete uses two cameras at all times. The main camera focuses on the inside three quarters of the track.

The only time he would use the other film from his second camera is if something went wrong with the main camera, or if a horse was on the extreme outside of the track and would be picked up by the second camera, which views the entire track.

Pete's two sons, Pete and Bobby, have followed in their father's footsteps. Pete Jr. is a videotape cameraman, while Bobby at one time worked as a photofinish man at Henderson, Ky.

Both his sons are now married and have their own children, making Pete and his wife, Betty, proud grandparents. England's loss has definitely been Collinsville's gain.

St. Bartholomew Church election

St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church of Granite City at its annual parish meeting held an election of officers.

The meeting was preceded by a sung mass, celebrated by the rector, the Rev. Wilbur L. Lear.

Following the mass, an old-fashioned parish potluck supper was held in the parish dining room, followed by the annual meeting.

Reports were presented by the rector, the treasurer, Mrs. R. M. Anderson, the church school by Ron Blatz, the Episcopal Churchwomen by Mrs. William Gaumer, and the Altar Guild by Mrs. Anna Mae Harris.

Officers chosen were William R. Gaumer, Lucille Harrison and Steven A. Gaumer, all elected to three-year terms on the Vestry; Mrs. J. K. Mefford and Mrs. R. Blatz, delegates to the Diocesan Synod for 1980; and Aaron Hart, delegate to the Western Deanery.

Fr. Lear announced that the parish has received a gift of two new dining room tables from the estate of the late Shirley Peters and a gift of two dining room tables, 20 chairs and an Advent wreath in memory of Nick Wargin.

Following the annual meeting, the Vestry met and Fr. Lear appointed Bill Gaumer as senior warden of the parish. Steven Gaumer was elected junior warden, Kaye Acquaviva was re-elected clerk of the Vestry, and Mary Anderson was re-elected parish treasurer.

Fr. Lear next appointed members of the Vestry to various parish committees, including finance, worship, memorials, building and grounds and church school. The Vestry meets every second Sunday immediately following the family mass.

AIR BOARD TO MEET

The Granite City Air Pollution Control Board will meet at 7:30 tonight at 2301 Adams St. to give final approval to the 1980-81 fiscal year federal grant application for the Air Pollution Control Department before submitting it to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Also to be considered is a supplemental grant application for a public relations program.

MID-LENGTH career cut brushed off the face, with the back of the hair gently rolled under. For a change, the style can easily be permed for curls and extra body to project the casual look. This is one of many new hair designs presented at the convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists held in Peoria. Several local hairdressers attended.

Career oriented hair styles presented at '80 convention

By DONNA HARTWICK of the Press-Record

New trends in hair styles, cuts, makeup, business concepts, salon design interior and many other topics were the highlights of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association convention held at the Holiday Inn East in Peoria. Local hairdressers attending the seminars included Mary Schiller, Dorothy Line, Jolene Prewitt and Helen Robbins.

Career cuts, versatile short and mid-length fashions, have been designed by the national association to help the increasing numbers of American career women look more professional during spring and summer 1980, the local hairdressers report.

The new cuts, featuring long lengths in the front for a variety of styling possibilities, are adaptable for the office, entertaining or relaxing on weekends, according to Max Matjeson, of Grand Rapids, Mich., styles director for the 68,000 member association.

He explained the career cuts are designed to complement the fashion world's interest in the business suit and skirt-blazer combinations for today's career women.

Other emphasis at the convention was given to haircoloring, noting that softness is the key word for the new year, especially in light blonde and strawberry blonde tones, Matjeson said.

Classes were offered in "Predictable Perming," a class designed for a scientific approach to chemical curl replacement; and "Controlled Curl Relaxing and Reconstruction," how to chemically control extra wavy and curly hair, making it suitable for various styles.

"Makeup" classes stressed the uses of light-dark contouring to change the apparent shape of faces, correct certain structural flaws, emphasize beautiful bone structure, and highlight elegant cheekbones and other attractive features.

"Skin Care" was covered in a professional instruction class, as were other subjects relative to the operation of beauty salon businesses and treatment of clients.

CAREER CUT, long front and short back, is one of the latest styles in the 1980 trend for the busy woman. The longer length at front is combined with precise tapering around the ears and back of the head for an easy hair style adaptable for business or formal occasions or for recreation.

World population trend topic of Madison-Venice Rotary

Members of the Rotary Club of Madison-Venice, as part of their celebration of the 75th anniversary of Rotary International, will observe World Understanding Week this week.

President John E. Lee III said the week fits in well with the 850,000 RI business and professional men's goals of advancing international understanding, good will and peace.

The Madison-Venice club will observe this week with a program at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday conducted by Dr. M. L. Kuntler, a professor of earth science, geography and planning in the School of Social Sciences at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. His remarks will center around the population problems of the world.

Rotary clubs throughout the world will exchange 5,000 high school age students from country to country, give overseas study awards worth thousands of dollars, and cooperate in projects to provide aid to communities in developing nations.

RI is in the fourth year and second phase of a nine-year cycle whereby each club is matched with a club in another part of the world for furthering the goal of world understanding.

Rotary of Madison-Venice is a group active in service to the community, promotion of high ethical standards in business and professions, and international peace. The club, which has 35 members, was formed in 1925. It meets at the Madison Recreation Center, Seventh and Lee.

Check or money order best when paying income tax

To pay your federal income tax, send either a personal check or money order, but never send cash, the Internal Revenue Service Springfield District suggested today.

Using a check or money order is safer from two standpoints, the IRS explained. First, a check or money order is harder to steal, and secondly, the cancelled check or money order receipt will serve as a record that the payment was made.

The IRS also said that taxpayers should be sure to write their Social Security number on the check or money order. This assures that the taxpayers will receive credit for the payment, should the check or money order be detached from the return.

Chief avoidable cause of death is smoking; study how to sway youngsters not to start

The nation's number one preventable cause of death, claiming in excess of 300,000 victims a year, is drug abuse. Right? Wrong.

Smoking is far ahead of all other preventable causes of disease in the United States, according to Dr. Jerome D. Cohen.

He is associate professor of internal medicine, St. Louis University School of Medicine, and Rodney M. Coe, Ph.D., professor of community medicine at the university, were chief investigators in an anti-smoking program for 338 teenagers in four St. Louis metropolitan area junior high schools, sponsored by the school of medicine's department of community medicine.

Results of the survey, funded by a grant from the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health, show that youngsters in the 12 to 17 age group benefit from counseling on how to resist two of the strongest influences on their decision to smoke — peer pressure and cigarette advertising.

The anti-smoking program, which was completed June 27, 1979, has attracted national attention this winter from the U.S. Public Health Service and the Center for Disease Control of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Similar anti-smoking programs for teenagers are under consideration, using the St. Louis Medical School program as a model.

Investigators Cohen and Coe agreed that any real success in such a program as theirs will depend on long-term effects and that the schools studied will have to be revisited for a follow-up study of students involved in the original program.

Anti-smoking efforts should begin in the fifth grade or even earlier, Dr. Cohen believes.

However, in the recent survey, conducted at the Brittany and Nipher Middle Schools, Normandy Junior High School and Yeatman's Providence Educational Center, the median age of those tested was 13 and the range was from 12 to 17.

At each of the schools, three or four medical school students from St. Louis U. met with seventh or eighth grade classes during school hours weekly for eight weeks.

The work was part of the med students' field project work in the human biology and ecology course for freshmen.

A questionnaire was administered before and after the two-month program to measure results.

He explained the findings were the following: the smoking prevalence was higher than the national average; 19 percent were classified as smokers, 40 percent as experimenters and 41 percent as non-smokers.

Smoking increased with age but no race or sex differences were observed.

Smoking was more common among students who had family members or best friends who smoked. A correlation was found bet-

College trustees will be candidates

Belleville Area College board members whose terms expire this April have announced that they will be candidates for re-election. Each of the three BAC trustees has formally announced his or her candidacy — two for three-year terms and one for a one-year position.

Avery Schermer, who was selected to replace Robert Harris when he resigned from the board, will try for a three-year term, as will Curt Eckert, who will be seeking his third term.

Elizabeth Jenner has announced that she plans to file for the one-year position. Schermer is a Granite City resident, Eckert is a Belleville resident and Elizabeth Jenner is from Mascoutah.

Elections for community college trustees will be held on Saturday, April 12.

The first date for filing is Feb. 27, and the last date is March 21. Petitions are available in the office of the board secretary, Ruthe Kombrink, at the main BAC campus, 2500 Carlyle Road (corner of Illinois 161 and Green Mount Road).

Anyone above the age of 18 who is a registered voter and who has lived in Community College District 52 since last April 1 may file for the BAC board.

Candidates must file nonvoting petitions containing the signatures of at least 50 registered voters.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS William Stewart, 39, of the 2300 block of Nameoki Road, was knocked unconscious by another person during a disturbance last week and underwent X-rays at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

2 prison terms for drug sales

Two local persons arrested Nov. 13, 1979, on warrants from the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois have been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court to serve prison time in drug cases, and two others were fined after pleading guilty to delivery of marijuana.

Lavern G. McLean, 33, of the 2400 block of Edison Avenue, has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Victor J. Mosele to serve 28 months in prison after pleading guilty to delivering a controlled substance to an undercover agent March 22, 1979.

Ernest D. Smith, 25, of the Sunny Shores Mobile Home Park, was sentenced by Associate Judge John W. Day to serve two years in prison after pleading guilty to three counts of delivering controlled substances to agents Jan. 3 and 9, 1979, and March 22, 1979, and one count of delivering marijuana to agents Jan. 2, 1979.

Judge Mosele ordered Boyd Edward Riggins, 19, of Rural Route Two, Granite City, to pay a $1,130 fine and to participate in the state's 710 rehabilitation program during 18 months of probation; Riggins pleaded guilty to delivering marijuana to undercover agents Aug. 20, 1979.

He was arrested during a drug sweep in this area Dec. 27 which netted nine persons allegedly involved in drug and marijuana sales.

Also sentenced was Mark R. Callender, 24, of the 2880 block of Harding Boulevard, who pleaded guilty to delivering cannabis to an undercover drug agent May 24 and Sept. 20, 1979. The latter date was the day a major sweep of arrests began which concluded with 16 persons in custody.

Judge Day ordered Callender to pay a $500 fine, to make $80 in restitution and to serve two years of probation.

Probation ordered in public aid case

David Lee Price, 51, of Parktowne West Mobile Home Park, has been ordered to make restitution totaling $8,736 and to serve 18 months of probation after pleading guilty to felony theft in a public aid fraud case.

The Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation prepared the case, which led to Price being charged with obtaining funds from the Illinois Department of Public Aid that he was not entitled to between May 1976 and December 1978, it was alleged.

Associate Judge John W. Day pronounced sentence in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

Plenty and profligacy—energy, growth in U.S.

By DANIEL BELL.
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Energy and the Way We Live." In this article Daniel Bell, Harvard University sociologist, examines the connection between energy use and prosperity throughout U.S. history. V. PLENTY AND PROFLIGACY: ENERGY AND GROWTH IN AMERICA

Twenty-five years ago, a distinguished American historian, David M. Potter, wrote an influential book entitled "People of Plenty." It was a convincing demonstration of the effects of economic abundance on the distinctive American character.

Only in America could such a book have been written. America was promised, and it seemed then as if those promises had been fulfilled—in part because of bountiful energy. But do those promises still hold true? Now that energy has become more expensive, can we still be a people of plenty?

AMERICAN BOUNTY. One of the earliest English descriptions of American bounty appeared in "Eastward Ho," a comedy written in 1605 by George Chapman and John Marston. Virginia, one of the characters declares, is as pleasant a country "as ever the sun shined on; temperate and full of all sorts of viands; wild boar there is as common as our tamest bacon here."

And in the 1780s, in one of the most famous observations by an early traveler, Hector St. John de Crevecoeur wrote:

"There is room for everybody in America. Does he want uncultivated lands? Thousands of acres present themselves, which he may purchase cheap. Whatever be his talents or inclinations, if they are moderate, he may satisfy them. I do not mean, that everyone who comes will grow rich in a little time; no, but he may procure an easy and decent maintenance by his industry."

But it was not just the fertile soil, the large forests, the vast seams of coal, the large veins of iron ore and the Great Lakes and river system that tied these together, that made us a people of plenty—though all these were essential. America's primary bounty was the ingenuity, energy, and character of its people.

Long before industrialization began in the 1840s, visitors remarked on the kinds of production and social organization that permitted the United States to take the lead in manufactured goods.

There was that largely home-taught genius Eli Whitney who, in setting up a factory to make muskets, in 1779 helped establish the principles of mass production: quantity, standardization, and interchangeability of parts. And Oliver Evans in the late 18th century invented a continuous flour-milling system which showed the way for the coordinated packing-house slaughter of animals, and later for the assembly line of Henry Ford.

What made the American outpouring of goods possible, of course, was bountiful energy—waterpower from the turbulent rivers, wood from the abundant forests, coal from the mines of Appalachia and southern Illinois, oil from western Pennsylvania and later from Texas and Oklahoma. Between 1820 and 1930, by exploiting new sources of power, America increased 40-fold the supply of energy that it could command per capita.

Electricity and oil changed our lives. Through electricity we could transform the night with light, provide power for machines, supply energy to life elevators, run the home appliances that we take for granted and the electronic devices whose physics we can only dimly grasp.

With oil, we heat our homes, fuel our autos, trucks and planes, and grow our food through petrochemicals that provide feedstock and fertilizer. These developments demanded increasing amounts of energy, particularly oil.

But the days of cheap oil and cheap energy are gone. We are living and will live in a very different era.

EARLY WARNINGS. There were warnings long ago. In 1893, in "The Significance of the Frontier in American History," the historian Frederick Jackson Turner signaled that land—for centuries our most abundant resource—was becoming limited in supply.

In the early 1900s, President Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot of the U.S. Forest Service led a conservation movement to husband and develop our natural resources. The Newlands Reclamation Act of 1902 proposed irrigation for desert lands, flood control for rampaging rivers, and deepening of shallow rivers for navigation.

Yet strikingly, all these programs collapsed as special interest groups—such as the lumber, cattle, and power industries—obtained special advantages from Congress. Equally striking is our sense of prodigality that so affected our view of the past that most of our U.S. history textbooks give scant attention to the history of conservation.

It was not until the 1960s that we became concerned about our natural resources. By then, the United States, self-sufficient in energy throughout most of its history, had begun importing oil.

And by 1973—when the OPEC cartel imposed its embargo and tripled and then quadrupled the price of oil—our dependence on foreign oil had risen to about 30 percent of our total oil usage.

ENERGY INDEPENDENCE.

The United States is now trying to regain its energy independence. This is necessary for political reasons so we will not be blackmailed by foreign powers. It is useful for economic reasons so that we know the true market costs of energy.

We have been told, however—not by responsible economists, but by headline-hunting politicians or simple-minded moralists—that we will have to change our way of life totally and acquire new values.

I think—and the evidence shows—that such statements wildly exaggerate the facts and hinder the formulation of a rational policy.

Let us focus on the most visible symbol of our way of life, the automobile.

The automobile accounts for 76 percent of the energy used for transportation, or slightly under 20 percent of all the energy we consume in the United States. (Since foreign oil accounts for 23.5 percent of our total energy, we can say, for dramatic sake, that the automobile consumes almost all the foreign oil we import.)

We are told that Americans are prodigal—that we consume four times as much gasoline per head as Western Europeans. But such comparisons ignore the greater size of the United States and its lower population density.

Given the distances in our country and the dispersal of homes and jobs, the automobile is a necessity for us. Before World War II, when existing mass transit systems were laid out, people traveled to the city to work.

Today, jobs are dispersed—for example, along Route 128 that rings Boston, or in "silicon valley" from San Francisco to San Jose, where high technology firms are strung out in a line, or in the corporate headquarters that fan out around New York City. A study of automobile use in Portland, Oregon, showed that only 4 percent of driving is for recreation.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM.

The answer to our energy dilemma is not necessarily to drive less, but to drive more economically. Germans get 70 percent more mileage per gallon of gas than do Americans; the English, almost twice as much.

The basic, and cheapest, mode of becoming energy independent is thus conservation. Studies by the American Physical Society and by the National Academy of Sciences, using 1973 figures, showed that by reducing heat losses from buildings, improving automobile efficiency and the like, the same U.S. living standard could theoretically have been maintained with 40 percent less energy.

Is the ideal of such conservation realistic? Following the oil embargo of 1973, Los Angeles instituted an energy curtailment plan with mandatory targets for reducing the use of electricity, but with consumers themselves implementing specific cuts. The response was gratifying: residential use decreased 18 percent; commercial, 28 percent; industrial, 11 percent.

The program brought dramatic savings with a minimum of sacrifice or change in lifestyles and with little investment.

Could such a system work in the nation at large? We would have to apply some practical engineering, some practical economics, and some practical commonsense.

Whether we will do so is a test of our national will.

Candidates voice their views

'Free ride' for judge and several others in primary

No matter how good a vote-getter he or she may be, the way a candidate would most like to run for office is without opposition (in most situations).

In this year's primary election in Madison County, nearly all of the district and county aspirants are unopposed for their party's nomination—on both the Republican and Democratic sides.

But some races have developed, and some of the unopposed candidates also are waging active campaigns, just to keep in practice perhaps. A number of the officials and hopefuls attended last week's Granite City Democratic Club candidate meeting.

Senate, as well as national nominating convention delegates and for certain precinct committee posts and Madison County Board positions.

There is primary competition for state's attorney, recorder of deeds and circuit judge, plus one of the two appellate judge positions open this year. Several are competing for the post of 23rd District congressman.

But, as noted, there is no rivalry for such offices as state representative, circuit clerk, coroner and auditor. Nor is there competition for Judge Harrison.

On the Republican side, Don Weber of Collinsville is unopposed for the state's attorney nomination.

Competition for recorder of deeds Democratic nomination

A spirited race may be developing in the March 18 Democratic primary for the recorder of deeds nomination.

Lucas, seeking a third four-year term as recorder, has been mayor of Maryville since 1966.

Knoblauch, endorsed by Sheriff Emil Toffaht, works as a court bailiff. Married and the father of two children, the Vietnam war veteran has an associate degree in business administration.

'Chicken and peas circuit' has begun for would-be officials and incumbents in Madison County, district campaigns

'He must have loved our party because He made so many of us'

The first fact that needs to be learned about local politics is that the Lord created a lot of Democrats in the Quad-City area and Madison County and Southwestern Illinois.

But the second fact that one becomes aware of regarding local politics is that "it ain't necessarily so" in some instances.

Republican governors like Richard Ogilvie and James Thompson have led their Democratic opponents in Madison County, and numerous similar examples come to mind. Even if a Republican trails in this county, it is worth his while to campaign here anyway, since every vote garnered goes onto the individual's statewide total.

Illinois campaigns are usually a bit uncoordinated because there is no single way that would-be officeholders or incumbents can get in touch with all the voters. There is no television network linking the state, although sometimes many individual TV stations carry the same talk or debate simultaneously.

Four of the U. S. Senate candidates of 1980 in Illinois participated Thursday in a debate at Springfield sponsored by Sangamon State University and the League of Women Voters. It was one of eight scheduled around the state, and the front-runner, Secretary of State Alan Dixon (D), has said he will take part in three.

Those vying Thursday were four fellow Democrats, Alex Seith, the 1978 Democratic nominee, plus Robert Wallace and perennial candidates Anthony Martin-Trigona and Dakin Williams. The latter hopeful resides in Collinsville and is the younger brother of award-winning playwright Tennessee Williams; he is a lawyer. Seith and Martin-Trigona are Chicago attorneys and Wallace is a former Treasury undersecretary.

Only a small crowd turned out for the debate.

Missing were the Republican aspirants, Attorney General William J. Scott (currently the defendant in an income tax trial), Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal and Peoria Mayor Richard Carver.

President Carter's policies and Dixon's absence were among the major targets of the debating quartet. But few heard them. There was no telecast, and a count of League of Women Voters members, campaign aides and newsmen attending totaled only about 30 persons.

There was some unanimity regarding Dixon and regarding the Carter administration's handling of inflation and foreign policy.

Seith said Congress ought to declare a "national economic emergency." He added, "We are being taxed into a recession." He said he favors lower taxes, budget balancing and regulatory impact studies.

Wallace supported spending reductions, job training, ending of revenue sharing and slashing of the federal deficit.

Williams said tax cuts are a future goal. He called for cutbacks in the Social Security and Small Business agencies.

Wallace suggested "detente with our allies" and said the president fails to consult adequately with other governments. Seith urged more attention to U. S. self-interest. Both seek stronger alliances with Europe and the Third World.

Martin-Trigona assailed "top diplomatic and national security officials as 'architects of appeasement.'" Three of those speaking opposed draft registration and Williams said he would start the draft now but would exclude women. Pres. Carter is backing registration of both men and women but has said he will try to avoid actual military conscription.

Whether Pres. Carter will gain reelection or not is a matter of great interest to voters here and throughout the state, and the Illinois outcome could go a long way toward deciding the national races.

The March 18 balloting will provide both a "beauty contest" and competing delegate slates.

But the Republican primary will be "blind," muddying the question of which presidential candidate "wins"—and giving added leverage to Governor James Thompson, a potential vice-presidential nominee who gets along well with most of the White House contenders. However, Thompson is said to have had a bit of a disagreement with current pace-setter George Bush.

As noted, Republicans are outnumbered in this county but are trying to "pull themselves up by their bootstraps."

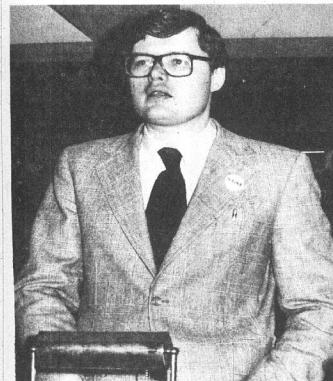

The task is hampered by the lack of candidates for many offices. However, the party can and will fill some of these positions if viable aspirants can be found between the primary and general election.

Press-Record feature by Bill Winter and Gary Schneider

Two legislative candidates and one state's attorney contender are likely to be on the fall ballot, and two or three other offices also may be sought, GOP leaders say.

3 state's attorney aspirants address GC club

PRIMARY RIVALS for state's attorney are (left to right) Richard Allen of Granite City, William Haine of Alton and Nicholas Byron of Edwardsville. Byron is seeking a third term.

An Aloe plant was exhibited and it was stated that propagation is a very simple process of taking the young shoots which root easily at any season. Members participated in a general discussion on ornithology and it was noted how interesting "indoor bird watching" can be during the winter months, especially for those who have made bird sanctuaries of their own back yards. Bird feeders are important at this time of the year and the reward is great in observing the number of species of birds migrating through this area as well as the cardinals which stay all winter, the speaker announced.

A survey was made of the number of trees and shrubs planted by Cloverview members during the past year and the count totalled 28 trees, 41 shrubs and rose

Cardinals signing up for Officer Friendly game Feb. 26

Ticket sales are brisk for this year's Officer Friendly basketball game, pitting Big Red Cardinals football players against Granite City policemen, firemen and friends, according to Officer Friendly Fred Hoffman.

"Tickets are only $2 each and anyone who has attended an Officer Friendly game will tell you, it is well worth the price of admission," Hoffman continued.

The eighth annual game will be held Tuesday, Feb. 26, in Memorial Gymnasium on the campus of Granite City High School South, beginning at 8 p.m.

Cardinals signed up for the game include Carl Allen, Ron Yankowski, Eric Williams, Roger Wehrli, Steve Piskiewicz, Brad Oates, Steve Neils, Thomas Lott, Tim Kearney, Mel Gray, Mike Dawson, Mark Arneson and Kurt Allerman. "Obviously, most of these fellows are slightly better athletes than our players, but we have some special surprises in mind which may help offset the difference.

These big fellows learned last year, it is hard to play basketball with handcuffs on," Hoffman said.

He also predicted a closer score this year than the "beatings" the police and firemen have suffered in past years. "We have supplemented our ranks with a few fellows who have handled basketballs before, including Mike DeRuntz, Rich Essington, Gary Siegel, Larry Lilley, and Steve Brown.

Policemen on the roster are David Rosenberg, Dave Ruchhausen, Mike Murgie, Roger Hayes and Ken Crawford. Firemen enlisted are Ed Hagnauer and Nelson Hagnauer Jr., and Emergency Medical Technicians slated to play are Mark Eavenson and Greg Nigholosing.

"We have a good lineup this year of fellows who don't trip over the white lines on the basketball court. You also have to remember, these Big Red players are football players, not basketball players, and they keep trying to get their hands around the ball. Have you ever tried to "tuck in" a basketball?" Hoffman asked.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Officer Friendly Athletic Fund which is used to sponsor youth basketball, soccer, hockey, football and baseball teams. The fund also is used to purchase equipment and pay registration fees for underprivileged children throughout the community, according to Hoffman.

Tickets are on sale from any policeman or fireman, or may be obtained at any Granite City fire station, the police station or at Madison County Federal Savings & Loan Association, which is co-sponsoring the game.

Lions governor to visit club

Lions District 1-G Governor Ralph Johnson, of the Franklin Lions Club, will be the guest at the 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 21, meeting of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club.

One of the new governor's duties is to visit, at least once, the 47 clubs in the district.

Gov. Johnson visited the Madison Lions on Jan. 24 and will make an official visit to the Granite City Lions on Thursday, April 10.

While making his visit to the Pontoon Beach Lions, the governor will induct three new members into the club: the Rev. Pat Pife of the Pontoon Baptist Church, Jason Kieffer, 2708 Angela Drive, and Phil Vaughn, 18 Iris Avenue.

Dr. George Goodwin, president of the Pontoon Beach Lions, is asking every member of the club to attend the governor's visit and has extended an invitation for visiting Lions to attend.

Sophisticated home energy control device

It will be as big as a shoebox and have a computer to design it. But the idea of building a computer-based system to replace the home thermostat to save energy is the winner of the Vincent Bendis Award for engineering and $365 in cash to try it.

The idea is officially called a Residential Temperature Control Center, made of a microprocessor connected to a keyboard and display window with sensor buttons and wires added.

In operation, it can be programmed to automatically regulate the temperature inside a home for maximum efficiency.

The winning committee that will out it together is made up of eight engineering students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, all members of the Student Chapter of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE). The international award was open to students in any school with an electrical engineering program.

Terry Grayson, chairman of the group, and a senior in engineering, said the local group started with the idea that every home has three temperatures — the moving around or occupied temperature, the sleeping temperature, and the away-at-work or shopping temperature.

By installing the control center instead of a regular thermostat, each of the three different temperatures can be programmed exactly, thereby saving the cost of wasted heat or cooling, it is believed.

For example, the center can warm the house up to 68 degrees a few minutes before the owner normally gets out of bed and takes a shower in the morning, cool it off to 60 degrees a few minutes after he leaves for work, warm it up again to 68 just before he comes home, and cut it back to 55 degrees once he's settled under the electric blanket for the night.

Grayson said some commercial devices on the market now do the same thing, but his system goes one step farther.

If the car gets stuck in the snow and it takes an hour longer to get home from work, the center will know and keep the heat lowered, he said.

That's where the sensors come in. Installed around the home, they will operate like a radar system using sound waves. If something is moving around in there, the ultrasonic detectors will be able to tell, he said.

Raghupathy Bollini, associate professor of engineering and faculty adviser for the group, said the control center may be installed and tested in one of the tract houses on the local campus when it is completed.

The houses are former private residences that have been converted to university use and would be ideal for the test, he said.

While it's there, the system also has the potential of being used as a home detection device, Bollini said. It won't be able to tell if an intruder is picking up the silverware, but it could be programmed to sound an alarm if it finds someone inside and moving about.

The award is the second Bendis prize for engineering students at SIUE. Two years ago, they received funding to build a talking clock to be used by the blind and handicapped.

The clock will be on display during the SIUE engineering open house Friday, Feb. 22, in the Science Building.

Engineering students on the winning committee are Andy Kerkemeyer, Wayne Crouch, John Heister, who is IEEE student branch chairman, Dan Schaeffer, Terry Grayson, project chairman, and Larry Wood, Paul Abert and Tom Kerner.

During the ten and one-half-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival.

He also was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditional for Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first-aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill.

Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Arrest boy at school

An employee of the Shop & Save Grocery in Bellemore Village Shopping Center told police at 3:20 p.m. Wednesday that she saw a 15-year-old boy steal two boxes of cupcakes from the store and walk toward Granite City High School South. She followed the boy to the school and into the cafeteria, where he allegedly gave most of the cupcakes to his friends. A school official apprehended him and police were called. The boy allegedly is on probation for burglary and was arrested about two weeks ago on a theft charge.

He was taken to the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home at Edwardsville.

Vigorous prosecution of delinquents needed—Haine

William R. Haine, a Democratic candidate for state's attorney, speaking before a conference of Madison County mayors last week, called for more vigorous prosecution of juvenile delinquents.

"The rising rate of juvenile crime is appalling," Haine told the mayors.

"Violent crime is becoming too common among some young people and they seem to be less open to rehabilitation. The only deterrence, therefore, is to remove them from society so they cannot injure others," he said.

Haine explained to the mayors the legal procedures under the Juvenile Court Act, including prosecution of juvenile delinquents.

He asserted that the only long-term solution to juvenile problems is a strong, healthy family life. "But the only short-term answer to violent juvenile crime is constant, vigorous prosecution," he added, "and effective use of the new habitual juvenile delinquency statutes."

Haine has served on several boards and commissions dealing with juveniles and crime by young people, including the Youth, Family and Advocacy Council of Belleville, the Catholic Children's Home School of Alton and the White House Commission on Children. He has testified before the Illinois Legislative Investigative Commission on the problems of sexual abuse of children.

Haine called in last week's talk for more diligent effort by the state's attorney's office on behalf of children who are abused and neglected.

"There should be more preparation and cooperation with authorities to insure that abused children are not returned to a home to be abused again," Haine said.

"We need a specialist in the state's attorney's office working with state and local agencies to insure good foster care, and to encourage efforts to adopt children who are the subject of abuse."

Haine spoke at a regular conference of the mayors of small cities and villages of Madison County, held at the Fireside Inn in Maryville.

Colonel Suzanne Hart will speak in Madison

Col. Suzanne Hart, of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, will speak at the annual Explorer Post 10-4 family night at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27, in the Madison Memorial Center.

Explorer Post 10-4 is in its 11th year of operation and this is the group's ninth family night. Over 200 persons will be attending the semi-potluck dinner.

Post 10-4 is sponsored by Policemen's Benevolent and Protective Association Unit 110.

Col. Hart has been active in the law enforcement Exploring program for several years.

She co-chaired with Stuart Knight, director of the U.S. Secret Service, the first National Law Enforcement Conference, held in Michigan during July 1979. It was at this conference that Col. Hart became acquainted with members and leaders of Post 10-4.

Her efforts in behalf of law enforcement have culminated not only in her appointment to the St. Louis Police Board, but in her being selected citizen of the year by the Missouri Peace Officers Association. She received the award on April 13, 1977.

She also participates actively in programs which have proved successful in preserving and restoring many homes and neighborhoods in her adopted city.

A native of Kansas City, Mo., Col. Hart came to St. Louis to attend St. Louis University, where she received a bachelor of science degree in 1956 with a major in political science and minors in English and French.

In 1956, she married Richard C. Hart, a St. Louis attorney. They have resided in the same home in West St. Louis since 1958. The couple has four children: John, 19; Anne, 17; Katherine, 15; and Richard, 12.

Many of Col. Hart's activities in law enforcement have been through the Women's Crusade Against Crime, in which she remains active. She chaired the crusade's Police Committee from 1974 through 1976.

In 1974 and 1975, she also chaired the crusade's annual Medal of Valor awards program. Also through the crusade, she has planned many informal neighborhood "kaffee klatches" throughout the city, bringing together district police officers and the citizens they serve.

Col. Hart has been a member of the Missouri Council on Criminal Justice, the St. Louis Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement and the University City Police Department's oral screening board for promotion to sergeant, and has been an advisor to the Team Policing Task Force for the St. Louis Police Department.

As a member of Catalyst Associates, she is involved in the initiation and continuation of all types of programs affecting the criminal justice system in the metropolitan St. Louis area.

Through the Skinner-DeBaliere Community Council, Col. Hart has helped renew her West End neighborhood by conducting tours and showing homes in the area to prospective buyers. Between 1973 and 1977, more than 110 homes were sold in the area.

This concept of an area's residents encouraging house-hunting families to become their neighbors has led her to posts on the boards of the West End Townhouse Corporation, through St. Louis's Catholic Church, and Neighborhood Marketing Services, Inc., through the St. Louis Community Development Agency.

An electric line down means DANGER!

DO NOT
go near the wire.

DO
report the fallen wire at once to Illinois Power and the police.

DO NOT
touch anything that the wire is touching, such as a fence, automobile, tree or bush.

DO
warn anyone else in the area to stay clear of the wires.

DO NOT
try to jump over the wire or run around it.

DO
get small children to their homes or someplace where they're out of danger!

No matter how strongly we build them, power lines can be brought down in heavy snow and ice storms when tree limbs snap and crash through the lines. Please remember—a power line on the ground spells DANGER! In emergencies like this, Illinois Power crews work around the clock to restore service as fast as possible. Until they can take care of the trouble, you take care of yourself.

Census jobs available here

Census takers are needed in this area, according to Ron Randolph, district manager of the area's 1980 Census office at Belleville. The Census Bureau welcomes applications from persons who will be able to work 40 hours a week, including many evenings and Saturdays, calling on households who have not returned their census forms. The work will begin soon. Before being hired, applicants will be tested for their ability to understand printed instructions and to do simple arithmetic. The manager says census takers must be physically fit to be on their feet for long periods and to climb stairs; must have good eyesight for reading small print, and good hearing for normal conversation. Applicants should have a home telephone and many will need a car for their work, but mileage will be paid. Census takers will receive a fee for their training and will be paid a piece rate and the number of household listings completed. Earnings can average $4, an hour or more. Most jobs will last three to five weeks. The Census Bureau is an equal opportunity employer. "We're counting on you," the manager said, "to apply for work as a census taker." Applicants may go to one of the following places ready to take the written test: Granite City Township Building, 2660B Delmar Ave., Granite City, Fridays only, 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. St. John's Church Fellowship Hall, 201 St. Louis St., Edwardsville, Tuesdays only, 1 p.m. American Legion Post 365 at 1022 Vandalia St., Collinsville, Tuesdays only, 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. U.S. Census District Office, 218A West Main St., Belleville, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. Salvation Army Citadel, 525 Albany St., Alton, Wednesdays only, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

This is the third year that Mrs. Thompson, wife of the governor, has sponsored the luncheon on Susan B. Anthony's birthday, at which time recognition is given to women who are leaders in volunteer organizations. Mrs. Eftimoff was also honored for her community activities at the first luncheon in 1978. She is currently serving on the Governor's Advisory Board for Women's Affairs, the Car chased; arrest two

Robert W. Johnson, 19, Macouhatch, was charged with fleeing from police, reckless driving, speeding, violating a red light at Nameoki and Johnson Roads and a stop sign at Davis and Jill avenues, and disorderly conduct after police alleged chasing his car from Nameoki and Johnson Roads to Joy and Aubrey avenues last week.

Robert P. O'Donnell, 18, Edwardsville, a passenger in the auto, also was charged with disorderly conduct because he and the driver allegedly ran away from the auto after it stopped; they were chased on foot by officers.

An officer checking for speeders with a radar gun alleged he timed a northbound auto on Nameoki Road at 49 miles per hour and when the officer turned on the red lights of his squad car, the other auto allegedly turned right onto Johnson Road, ignoring the red lights.

The officer chased a car, which allegedly was being driven in a reckless manner, and at Davis and Jill avenues the auto allegedly ran over a stop sign and continued to Joy and Aubrey, where the driver lost control and the auto stopped in a yard. The two allegedly ran from the car, but the driver was stopped immediately and the passenger was caught after running through several yards, police related.

HOUSEHOLD ITEMS
AT APARTMENT
A television and stereo stand, couch cover, ashtrays, electric clock, radio, a jar filled with $15 in silver, plus butter knives, a makeup mirror and towels were taken from a storage area at an apartment at 2712 Denver St., it was reported by Arden Millison of Collinsville at 11:50 a.m. Saturday. Millison said the landlord had told him he could store the items when he moved from the apartment on Jan. 15, but when he returned Jan. 27 they were missing.

Census will reassess status of women

Dramatic changes have taken place in the lives of American women during the past decade, and 1980 census statistics will tell that story. But the census will also find that for women, some things have not changed at all.

For example, women with year-round full-time work in 1960 had median earnings of $3,257, or 61 percent of the median earnings for men who also worked full time all year round.

By 1977, this median figure for women had risen to $6,618, but it was only 59 percent of the median for men—about the same proportion as 17 years earlier.

The broadbrush 1977 figures just quoted are national in scope, derived from surveys conducted by the Bureau of the Census.

The upcoming 1980 census will tell women's story in great detail, and income is only one aspect. Moreover, census data will reveal trends within and among regions, states, counties, and even cities and smaller places.

Three major concerns of women in recent years have been employment, marriage and childbearing, and educational opportunity.

Census statistics will provide detailed reports about these subjects, and about the consequences of change—for example, the sharply increasing number of households maintained by women with no husband present, the trend toward postponing marriage to pursue education or careers, and a sharp decline in the birth rate.

Because census findings about women can be analyzed by age, race, marital status, geographic area and other variables, the data will provide facts of far greater detail than any now available.

The census questionnaire itself reflects the changing status of women. The term "head of household" has been eliminated.

Instead, one of the persons in whose name the dwelling is rented or owned will be listed first, with other household members listed by relationship to that person. Formerly, the male in a male-female household was assumed to be the head of household.

One of the most striking changes of the 1970s has been the sharp increase of women in the labor force.

In 1978, for the first time in U.S. history, half of all American women 16 years old and over—42 million of them—were in the labor force. Among women 25 to 34, the proportion in the labor force rose from 36 percent in 1960 to 62 percent in 1978.

In sheer numbers, nearly 6.4 million more women in this age group—many of them mothers of young children—were in the labor force in 1978 than in 1960.

Women comprised 42 percent of the civilian U.S. workforce in 1978, up from 34 percent in 1960.

What is today's woman finding on the job? National surveys have reported that she finds pride, professional recognition, responsibility, and a chance to discover and develop new talents and skills.

She also finds that her paycheck quite often is smaller than that of her male equivalent, that she is typecast into traditionally female job roles, and that she tends to be in the lower ranks of her occupational field.

The median income for women with college degrees who worked year-round full-time in 1977 was less than that of men with high school education.

White female college graduates in 1977 had a median income that was 60 percent of their white male counterparts' earnings that year.

The number of women employed in professional and technical occupations increased from 4.5 million in 1972 to more than 6 million in 1978. However, for women working year-round full time in these occupations, 1978 median earnings were $12,000, about $6,000 less than the $18,200 median of their male counterparts.

The number of women in managerial and administrative jobs increased 67 percent between 1972 and 1978, but in 1977 the median earnings of women managers working year-round full time were $9,800, compared to $18,086 for men in that category.

Despite the new visibility of female professionals, such as judges, doctors, and heads of government agencies, women remain concentrated in traditionally female clerical and service occupations (55 percent of all employed women in 1978).

In 1978, women outnumbered men by nearly 4 to 1 in clerical positions. However, of people working year-round full time in clerical positions, males earned a median salary of $14,000, while women earned $8,600.

Affirmative action administrators, leaders of women's organizations, personnel managers, and employers will find census data on the occupational concentrations and relative incomes of employed women useful in planning programs during the 1980s.

Census data will show how women are changing the workforce nationally and locally. It will also show how work is changing women.

In 1940, only 14 percent of married women worked. The career woman who dedicated herself to a job, rather than a husband and children, was a stock character in the popular imagination.

The movies often made her either straight-laced or unscrupulous, with absolute dedication to her boss; often a gruff newspaper editor or a brusque bank president who married her in the final frames.

If current trends are borne out in the 1980 census, as is expected, the term "career woman" as it was known in earlier decades may disappear out of the language through irrelevance.

In 1978, 47 percent of all married women worked. Of women with preschool children, 42 percent worked in 1978; only 19 percent did so as recently as 1960.

Among young women, a trend toward postponing marriage and childbearing for education and careers is clear: the average age of women at first marriage, 20.8 years in 1970, had risen to 21.1 years by 1975.

Between 1970 and 1978, the proportion of women 20 to 24 who were single increased by a third. The result of these annual changes will be measured by the 1980 census.

Between 1960 and 1978, the percentage of single (never married) women 20 to 24 increased from 28 percent to 48 percent, and their proportion in the labor force rose from less than half (46 percent) to more than two thirds (68 percent).

Among women 25 to 29 in 1978, 18 percent had never married, compared to 10.5 percent just 8 years earlier.

For a small but growing number of American women, being single means living as a partner in an unmarried couple. Between 1970 and 1978, the number of unmarried couples sharing a household increased 117 percent to 1,137,000. Slightly more than one percent of U.S. women live in such households.

The 1980 census will show whether this trend is continuing, and whether such partnerships are more prevalent in certain parts of the country than others.

A declining birthrate and an escalating divorce rate typify the late 1970s. At present, the fertility rate for U.S. women is about 1.8 children per woman, below the replacement rate required to make up for the normal death rate.

In 1978, married and formerly married women 25 to 29 had borne an average of 1.4 children, down from 2.2 children for that age group in 1960. Among married and formerly married black women, the number of births per woman dropped from 2.8 children in 1960 to 2.0 children in 1978.

In spite of declining birth rates, zero population growth seems unlikely in the foreseeable future.

The Census Bureau's Current Population Survey of June 1978 found that women 18 to 34 had borne an average of 1.2 children, but that they expected to bear an average of 2.1 children over their lifetimes.

The nation's high divorce rate there were 80 divorced persons for every 1,000 persons living in husband-wife families in 1978—a striking increase in the number of women who maintain households by themselves.

Eight million U.S. families were maintained by women in 1978, an 82 percent increase over the number of such families in 1960. In fact, women with no husband present now maintain about 14 percent of all U.S. families.

Census data for this group of women in 1980 is of particular interest to government agencies and organizations that plan and administer health and welfare programs for women. Families maintained by women have a significantly lower income than any other kind of U.S. family unit.

In 1977, these families had a median income of $7,770, only 44 percent of the median income for husband-wife families. About 31 percent had incomes under $5,000. Households maintained by black women had a median income of $5,600, or about $1,910 per family member, compared to $9,810 per family member in households maintained by white women.

Women are more likely to graduate from high school than men, but only 50 percent of all 1978 college students were women. However, the number of women under 18 enrolled in college increased 50 percent between 1970 and 1978.

For women 18 to 24, the increase in college enrollment between those years was 36 percent, while the increase for men of the same age was only about nine percent.

The 1980 census will show whether or not women's college enrollment is continuing to increase at a rapid rate.

The most striking increase in college enrollment for any population group during the 1970s was among young black women. About 269,000 black women under 35 were enrolled in college in 1970; by October 1978, about 570,000 were enrolled, an increase of 112 percent. College enrollment for white women in the same age group increased about 49 percent. Overall, women's enrollment in college increased 57 percent.

Since 1970, women 25 to 34 have shown a growing trend toward college enrollment. Among women 25 to 29, the increase between 1970 and 1978 was 173 percent; among women 30 to 34, the increase was 209 percent.

Men over 25 are still more likely to graduate than their female counterparts, but the rate of increase has been relatively less. In 1970, one man in seven was a college graduate; in 1978, one in five.

Women are also pursuing advanced degrees in greater numbers. Between 1970 and 1978, the number of women enrolled in graduate programs doubled, compared with a 21 percent increase for males.

In 1960, a newborn girl could expect to live 48.3 years, two years longer than a boy born the same year.

By 1977, about the time for that girl's first great-granddaughter to be born, the infant girl's expectancy was 77.1 years, 28.8 years more than her great-grandmother's and 7.8 years longer than that of a male infant born in 1977.

In 1976, women experienced lower death rates than men from all but one (diabetes) of the 15 leading causes of death in the U.S.

In July 1978, the 112 million U.S. females represented 51.3 percent of the population, outnumbering males by 5.5 million.

Allowing for general population increases and women's greater longevity, it appears that there will be 6.7 to 7.6 million more women than men by the end of the century. The 1980 census will provide a finer measure of this trend.

Greater longevity has also brought an increase in the average age of women in the U.S., from 22.4 years in 1900 to 31.0 years in 1978. Women over 65 now outnumber men over 65 by about 4.5 million.

Back to the drawing board with the relocation law

Diametrically opposed views of House Bill 2708, the Employer Relocation Act, were voiced at last week's hearing here on the proposed new Illinois law. Already losing industry to other states—A. O. Smith Corporation, for example, has built in Tennessee rather than expanding in Illinois—this state can ill afford further “help” from the General Assembly unless that help is finely tuned toward solving rather than worsening existing problems. With this in mind, legislators like Representative Jim McPike ought to listen to both sides of the issue. The goal is worthy and perhaps some form of the proposal would be better, but the sharp difference in sentiment being heard here and elsewhere in the state should serve as a warning signal that the legislation would be unwise, at least with its present wording. From the individual employee's standpoint, the bill seems attractive. Firms employing 100 or more would have to give a year's notice of a planned plant closing, informing both the workers and the municipality. Severance pay would have to equal one week's wages for each year of service by those working three or more years. A community assistance fund would be set up to aid areas adversely affected by a closing. And economic impact would be considered on proposed plant closings would be required.

Weighed against this “security blanket” would be the broader question of how many firms would decide against locating in Illinois due to the added restrictions. Jobs never created and never filled are invisible, nor can prospective employers be sure of the reasons for a lack of such jobs could have a tangible negative effect on a community, its residents and the state.

Difficult issues are raised by the proposed new law. The “agreed bill” concept may have its disadvantages, but that whenever Illinois legislators have thumbed their noses at either labor or management, both have suffered in the long run.

The Assembly ought to go back to the drawing board and develop wording that companies and unions say they can live with. The process is not new, it is known as negotiation.

Local students will help stress importance of census

Special classroom materials to help increase public awareness of the 1980 census are being sent by the Bureau of the Census to schools here. The Census Education Project consists of two curriculum packages—one for elementary, the other for secondary classes—designed for use in the weeks just prior to Census Day, April 1.

The heart of each package is a teacher's guide and a set of reproducible lesson masters. One lesson master, a package available in Spanish on request, consists of a “take-home” project that enables students to share with parents or guardians their knowledge of the census and its importance. Experience has shown that children, once they are motivated, can be highly influential in motivating parents. Each elementary school package contains four lesson master sheets; the secondary school package contains eight master sheets that deal with subjects across the broader spectrum of secondary school education.

The teacher's guide is printed on a file folder in which the other elements of the package are contained. The guide contains a rationale for the program, background information on the census, and suggestions on how to use the materials most effectively.

In addition to the lesson masters, each package contains a wall chart suitable for display in classrooms during the period of peak interest in the census—March and April. A smaller bulletin-board announcement for teachers is also included.

The Bureau plans to send 72,500 elementary and 34,000 secondary school packages to both public and private schools, including American Indian schools.

The 1980 census, the nation's 20th since 1790, will be the most massive statistical undertaking in U.S. history. The Census Bureau expects to count 222 million U.S. inhabitants living in 80 million housing units.

The Bureau is making an all-out effort to improve public cooperation in the census in order to get the most accurate and complete count in history. Building public awareness through educational materials is one aspect of this effort to make people understand the census and its importance in their lives.

Borrowing will enable Venice schools to finish fiscal year

The Venice school district should be able to complete this school year without additional financial difficulties, if local lending institutions will guarantee the district to borrow the legal limit of up to 85 percent of the real estate taxes it expects to receive this year.

The Venice Board of Education agreed to hold an executive session at 6:30 p.m. Thursday to get the most accurate and complete count in history. Building public awareness through educational materials is one aspect of this effort to make people understand the census and its importance in their lives.

The school board has authorized the issuance of educational fund anticipation warrants totaling $65,000, which is 85 percent of the expected income next year from real estate taxes. However, Vickers reported, First National Bank in Madison agreed to purchase only $200,000 of the warrants, since it already had purchased $37,000 in warrants for the building fund earlier this school year.

Thursday night, the school board authorized Vickers to attempt to sell over $200,000 in anticipation warrants for the educational fund to other local lending institutions.

Vickers reported the district expects to receive about $180,000 in late taxes from the county treasurer, but efforts to speed up that distribution have been unsuccessful and it will probably be late March before the final tax distribution is received. Meanwhile, interest on the tax anticipation warrants the taxes would repay is costing Venice residents $30 per day, Vickers said.

When that $180,000 or so is received it will be within $40,000 of repaying the outstanding warrants from last year. What we really need is another $102,000, to cover the needed $65,000, plus the $37,000 already borrowed for the building fund,” he stated. “There should not be any problem with the district being able to pay off the warrants, because the $265,000 is what we expect to receive in real estate taxes next year, not including corporate taxes and property taxes. We can borrow against the corporate taxes, but we are not doing that yet,” he said.

The Local 98 contract, which covers custodians, cafeteria workers and secretaries, expired June 30, but the union members had continued working, while negotiations are continuing.

Norwood new SIU chairman

William R. Norwood of Elk Grove Village has been elected chairman of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees. The election took place Thursday at the February meeting of the board, held on the Carbondale campus.

Other officers elected were A. D. Van Meter Jr. of Springfield, vice chairman, and Carol Kimmel of Rock Island, secretary.

Norwood, a United Airlines pilot, who had served as chairman since 1977 and did not seek reelection, Rowe, a trustee since 1971, will continue to serve as a member of the board.

Norwood has been a member of the board since 1974 and has served as a member of its executive committee five years. He was elected vice chairman in 1978 and served as chairman of the board's Ad Hoc Committee on Governmental Relations and the plans for centralization of the SIU system under a chancellor.

Van Meter has been a member of the SIUE Board of Trustees since 1975. He is president of the Illinois National Bank of Springfield and has been a member of the Springfield law firm of Van Meter, Oxtoby and Funk since 1949.

Adele Baker, 73, shot and killed at her home in Venice

Mrs. Adele Baker, 73, of 815 S. Fourth St., Venice, was shot and killed in her home, probably Friday afternoon or evening, and was found with signs of a violent Saturday afternoon by relatives who came to visit her.

Venice police said there were no signs of ransacking or of forced entry to the home. It was not announced whether anything is missing from the home or whether there are any suspects.

Mizzell estimated Mrs. Baker was shot Friday afternoon or evening. Three bullets were recovered during an autopsy yesterday afternoon at a Granite City funeral home.

Mrs. Baker's body was taken to a St. Louis funeral home.

She had no local survivors, authorities said.

Warriors edge North

Press-Record Sports

GRANITE CITY (III.) PRESS-RECORD, Monday, Feb. 18, 1980 — 17

By ROBERT REIG
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — South against North: the classic inter-city athletic battle which splits Granite City right down the middle.

It is seldom, however, when the quality of the contests themselves produce a feeling of excitement which is equivalent to the pre-game fervor that accentuates every South-North clash.

In short, North-South matches are often not very exciting.

Saturday night was an exception.

South withstood a strong fourth quarter challenge by the Steelers to hold on for a 55-52 win. Nobody left early.

The game was played at North, but of course the Steelers did not enjoy a real home-court advantage.

South had just as many supporters as North. Both sides made equal amounts of noise, which was plenty, and as Warrior coach Don Deterding said, "Everyone got their money's worth."

The Warriors held an eight-point lead at the end of the third quarter, but a wild finish seemed inevitable when Steeler guard Bob Batey sank a 12-foot jumper, stole the subsequent inbound pass and scored from eight feet to cut the lead to four during the first 30 seconds of the last quarter.

That's as close as the Steelers got until forward Mike Robertson scored on a jumper with 2:30 left to pull North within a basket, 54-52.

South blew some chances putting the game away when the Warriors missed two layups and four free throws in the closing two minutes. North got the ball and a chance to tie the game with 16 seconds left.

North's playmaking guard and leading scorer, Dennis Page, had fouled out so Steeler coach Bill Ohlendorf told his team to penetrate toward the baseline and have Robertson take the last shot.

South had other ideas, however, and Robertson drew heavy coverage.

With North's outside shooting sitting on the bench in the person of Page, the Steelers passed the ball around frantically hoping someone would open up under the basket.

Nobody did and Batey let go of a bad angle shot from under the right side of the boards with a couple of seconds left. The shot was an air ball.

Warrior guard Lee Heubner grabbed the rebound, his 13th of the game, and was fouled with one second left. Heubner sank the free throw to give South its margin of victory.

"These types of games are only enjoyable to watch and play, but also to coach," Deterding said in a jubilant clubhouse. The closeness of Robertson take the last shot.

Deterding, although his club had beaten North by 27 points a month earlier.

"Hey, when we get together you can throw out all the records. They don't mean anything," he said. "Anyone can win and anything can happen."

North's chances of winning also improved dramatically when Page plays. He was sick and out of the lineup the first time North and South met this year, a fact which was not lost on Deterding.

"We played as well tonight as we did the first time we played North," he said. "Page was sick then and that's a big difference. He's a heck of a player."

The Steelers, however, were unable to use Page as much as they would have liked to since the guard got into early foul trouble.

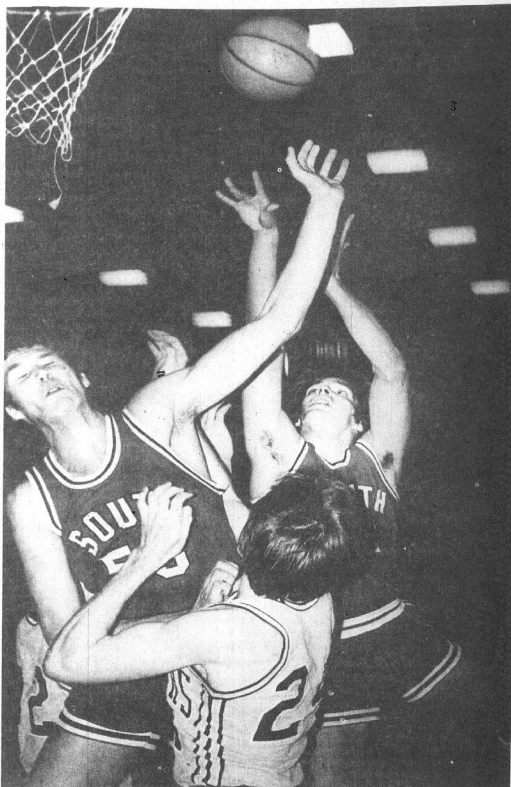

He had three fouls in the first quarter and picked up his fourth with 4:49 to go in the second, which sent him to the bench for the rest of the half. When Page left the game, North was leading 25-19. The half ended with the score tied 28-28.

North led South 19-14 after the first quarter thanks to a brilliant opening period by Robertson. The 6-foot-2 forward scored 15 points by going five for six from the floor and five for five at the line. Robertson cooled off considerably as he finished the night with 21 points, but he had the Steeler fans buzzing by scoring nine of

Trojans bust clock, Vikes

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

HIGHLAND — Emanating from a patch of Madison green among the 'drab mosaic of the crowd in the Highland gymnasium, the chant rose to a crescendo.

BUST THAT CLOCK. BUST THAT CLOCK. BUST THAT CLOCK.

On the court, the St. Paul Vikings huffed and puffed their way back and forth in a vain attempt to stop the inevitable.

It was late in the fourth quarter. The Madison Trojans had long since claimed the victory. Now the Trojans and their fans had their minds set on a different goal.

BUST THAT CLOCK. BUST THAT CLOCK. BUST THAT CLOCK.

Trojan Mark Zarr scored points 92 and 93 with a short jump shot. Madison led 93-63.

The clock flashed 2:55. Time was Madison's only obstacle now.

The Trojans called time out. They huddled around coach Larry Graham, who said, "If we're going to score a hundred points we're going to do it the way we always do. We're taking off the press. Anyone who presses will be on the bench."

It was, though, inevitable. Picking up the remnants of St. Paul's broken plays, the Trojans more or less stumbled the rest of the way to the magical 100 point mark.

As a matter of record, the final was 101-65.

Zarr scored the clock-busting, crowd-pleasing final basket on a tip-in just before the game ended.

From the look of the celebration that followed, you'd have thought the final was 101-100.

Trojan Mark Zarr pointed out after the scene had returned to normal, "We're enthusiastic because we're building momentum for the regional tournament."

If anyone needed evidence of the Trojans ability to score points, the game served as a reminder. Although none of the Trojans were on the floor the whole game, six Madison players finished the game with ten or more points.

Leading the way was Madison's Morris Hughes, who scored 25 points.

On the other hand, despite the wide disparity in the final score, St. Paul did some scoring of its own.

Roger Kloss, St. Paul's forward, equalled Hughes' performance with 25 points of his own.

And overall, the Vikings presented Madison with a much more impressive performance than that of early in the season.

Although the game developed into a rout by the fourth quarter, the Vikings had their moments.

Most impressive of which came just after the second half began.

Facing a 52-37 deficit at the intermission, the Vikings had yet to mount a serious run at Madison. But, that changed quickly.

For the first two minutes of the half, St. Paul was the beneficiary of just about break that occurred.

Madison gave the ball up three different times, and each time the Vikings converted the turn-overs to points.

The Trojans didn't score until the 6:04 mark, and still the Vikings continued to score.

The lead had been cut to its closest margin since the first quarter when Kloss scored a lay-up at 5:49 to pull his Vikings within nine points.

All that ended abruptly, though, and it may have been because of a Trojan mistake.

Shortly before Kloss scored, Madison's Hughes was called for a charging foul. As had been the case all night, the call was questionable — picky, you might say.

At least the Trojans thought so. And if they had been somewhat lachrymical in defending their big lead before, they suddenly were reawakened.

"Don't get me wrong," Graham said, "They're good officials. But they were calling them close on both sides tonight. When they called Hughes for charging I think it ignited us a little bit."

Not that the Trojans needed that much help scoring. They rolled up a 29-16 lead after just the first quarter.

Vashon too much for Red Devils

ST. LOUIS — The Venice basketball Red Devils came out on the short end of an 89-75 decision with the St. Louis High here Saturday night in a prep basketball game. But it was much closer than that.

Venice coach Ken Perkins had an idea of what went wrong, however. "We just got beat to death inside," he said. "Donald (Gardner) was almost beat up inside by their big man."

Oh yes, another thing too. The officiating. "Every time we'd get back into the game, they (the referees) would whistle something crazy on us and all of a sudden, we'd be down by 14 again."

Even Vashon's coaches told me they thought we (Venice) got jobbed tonight."

But climb back Venice did. In fact, with plenty of time remaining in the game, the Devils had fought back to within six points at 76-70. But then another "whistle break."

Venice had its chances, however. The Red Devils missed 21 free throws.

"They (Vashon) come down here a couple weeks ago and we lost by one and miss 15 free throws," said Perkins. "Tonight, we miss 21 free throws and lose by 14."

Perkins said he felt much of the reason for the missed opportunities was frustration. "Each time we got into it, something would happen to take us right back out of it again."

"I think a lot of it was because the guys started thinking, 'What's the use, I'm gonna get called for something anyway.'"

The loss for Venice (12-10) comes on the heels of a shoot-out 125-107 loss at powerful large school St. Louis Central Friday night (see related story).

The next game for the Red Devils is Tuesday, Feb. 19 at home against winless Belleville St. Henry Prep.

Does going from games with two of the toughest teams in St. Louis to one city to a game with a team the hapless likes of St. Henry have a good or bad effect on a team? "I don't think it's good to play a poor team immediately after two tough games with good teams," said Perkins. "But you have to play them when you can."

Perkins said he'd rather not even play St. Henry. "If I had my druthers, I rather put somebody else on the schedule, but we've played them for so many years, we keep them on."

Granite teams dominate District Tourney

WOOD RIVER — Once again Granite City showed its superiority in high school wrestling as South took first place and North took second place in the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Class AA District Tournament Friday and Saturday in Wood River.

Seven South Warrior and six North Steeler grapplers earned the right to advance into this weekend's IHSA Sectional tournament at Granite City South.

The Warriors tallied a total of 171 points to capture top honors in what was called the "toughest district involved in South's sectional." North followed with 146½ points to finish second.

Roxana placed third with 92 points, just one ahead of Cahokia with 91. Finishing fifth was East St. Louis Senior with 40, East St. Louis Lincoln with 30, Alton scored 28, Bethalto-Civic Memorial tallied 15, and Wood River managed 5.

Both Granite schools had four individual champions.

Steve Smith at 108, Tracy Patton at 119, Bob Kirgan at 126 and Kevin Shemwell at 132 are the first-place winners for Granite City North.

South's wrestlers that won top honors were: Greg Garland, 112 pounds; Dean Perkins, 145 pounds; Druce Clement, 155 pounds; and Rich James, 185 pounds.

Five other Granite wrestlers are going to the Sectional in which only the first and second-place district finishers were entered. Mike Robinson, at 98 for North; Jerry Miller, 112 for North; Randy Lupardus, 119 for South; Tom McElroy, 138 for South and Scott Polson, 167 for South all finished second to advance.

Other athletes to emerge out of the district were: Rob Warren, first, 98, Roxana; Lee Hinley, second, 105, Lincoln; Mark Lorentzen, second, 126, Cahokia; Ken Bennett, second, 132, East St. Louis Senior; Bob Kofron, first, 138, Cahokia; Kevin Bement, second, 145, Cahokia; Mike Hartmann, second, 155, Alton; Mike Babcock, first, 167, Roxana; Dean Hollis, second, 185, Roxana; Keith Cruise, first, heavyweight, Cahokia, and Gary Carter, second, heavyweight, Roxana.

Robinson, at 98, lost to Warren in the finals, 4-1. At 105, Smith scored six points in the final two minutes to defeat Hinley, 7-4. Garland, at 112, after losing to Miller twice and drawing once earlier in the season, edged Miller 6-5 to become the champion at that weight.

Another North vs. South final appeared at 119. Patton beat Lupardus 6-3. At 126, Kirgan landed a 5-2 decision against Lorentzen. Shemwell easily handled 132-pounder Dannel, 5-1. At 138, Tom McElroy of South hurt his ankle during his final round loss to Kofron, 9-8.

South's Dean Perkins ran into a little difficulty in beating Cahokia's 145-pound Kevin Bement, 4-3. Druce Clement, at 155 pounds, beat Hartmann, 5-2, to take district championship. At 167 pounds, Polson lost 8-6 to Babcock. James, at 185, wrestled Hollis to a 7-5 victory. At heavyweight, Cruise came from behind to defeat Carter, 5-4.

Five Granite athletes wrestled back to attempt second place awards. All five won. Robinson beat Cahokia's Bob McDaniel 2-1 in the 98-pound bout. Miller, at 112, beat Bethalto's Mark Kristoff 7-5. At 119, Lupardus beat Mike Harpole, of Alton, 4-2. McElroy beat Glen Thompson, of North at 138, 8-6. And at 167, Polson easily whipped North's Tom Nance, 15-1.

West wins easily

ST. JACOB — The Belleville West wrestling Maroons easily won the team championship here Saturday at the Troy Class AA (large school) Wrestling District Tournament.

West, ranked number one in the Press-Record Prep Wrestling Poll, finished with 194 points. Belleville East was second with 78. Collinsville had 77.5, Mascoutah 76.5, Edwardsville 73, O'Fallon 58, Triad 53.5, Belleville Althoff 29 and Highland 24.

West advanced eight wrestlers to next weekend's Granite City South Sectional Tournament.

LAND OF THE GIANTS. It was all-Granite City Friday and Saturday at the IHSA Class AA (large school) District Wrestling Tournament at Wood River. Granite City

South won the meet, followed by Granite City North in second place. Here, South's Randy Lupardus (front) battles with North Steeler Tracy Patton during action Saturday evening.

Not Madison's fault

Mr. James Barker, Supt. Lovejoy District No. 188 Lovejoy P.O., Ill.

Dear Mr. Barker: The Madison administration and coaching staff make the following statement regarding the Lovejoy High School basketball team. The implication of Lovejoy by the IHSA is not the fault of Madison High School.

We, at Madison, are very happy for Lovejoy's success. They have an outstanding team that should make their school and community proud just as we do. We look for challenges and our position has always been to play the very best — to compete on a high plain and to accept the outcome, win or lose.

We are very much aware that Lovejoy is in the DuPo Regional along with four other strong teams. Come tournament time we fear everyone, but we will be ready and look forward to playing the best.

Sincerely yours, JOHN L. PALCHOFF, Madison Superintendent cc: Pete Hayes, Granite City Press-Record. Scott Stevenson, East St. Louis Monitor.

Second meeting on Lovejoy to be today

GRANITE CITY — Lovejoy (Brooklyn) High School basketball coach Leon Thomas and school principal Leo Triplett will travel to Bloomington and a special meeting with the Illinois High School Association today, the Press-Record has learned.

The two, along with assistant coach Clinton Harris, were contacted by IHSA Executive Secretary Lavere Astorch last Thursday, following the regular meeting if the IHSA's Board of Directors, at which charges that Lovejoy violated association bylaws by playing in three basketball tournaments this season, instead of the two allowed.

The school did not send any representatives to last week's meeting, school officials are feeling that would accept any punishment the IHSA felt necessary.

However, Astorch contacted Triplett by telephone Thursday and requested his presence at today's meeting.

IHSA officials would not comment on last week's meeting. The Press-Record learned of today's meeting through Lovejoy.

According to an IHSA spokesman, punishment for such an offense could range from a mere "slap on the hand" to complete suspension of the school from this season's post-season Class A (small school) regional tournament at DuPont. Quad Cities schools Madison and Venice are also entered at DuPo.

Lovejoy's enrollment is 88.

Alton throttles two Belleville schools

Area wrap-up

BELLEVILLE — The Alton Redbirds, the top-ranked team in the latest Press-Record poll of area Class AA basketball coaches, will probably stay at the top by virtue of a couple of impressive victories Friday and Saturday over Belleville East and Belleville West.

Friday, Alton (18-2) stayed home and left visiting West limping home with a bad case of the blues, 70-46. Saturday, the Redbirds traveled to Belleville and left with an 85-65 victory in their hip-pockets over Belleville East.

Alton out-quickened both Belleville schools. Saturday, the Redbirds were led in scoring by all-state guard candidate John Smith, who pumped in 22 points. He and guard-mate Troy Washburn dazzled the East Lakers with their speed, quickness and passing.

Friday, Alton was paced by Washington's 20 points. Smith added 18.

In other area action over the weekend, Breesa Mater

Dei stunned the top-ranked Okawville Rockets 55-54 Friday in Okawville. In the latest Press-Record Class A hoop poll, Okawville was tied for first with Madison. Mater Dei came from behind, outscoring Okawville 19-16 in the fourth quarter to take the victory. The loss dropped Okawville to 21-5.

In other games, Lovejoy (Brooklyn) made it appear as if controversy surrounding its apparent breach of IHSA rules and impending hearings didn't matter a bit to the Wildcats on the floor. Friday, they whipped hapless St. Louis Academy of Math and Science 104-47.

Weslin (Trenton) defeated Columbia 49-31 Friday. Jerseyville outlasted O'Fallon 71-49 and Wood River all but wrapped up the championship of the Mississippi Valley Conference with a 68-50 victory over Highland, which had earlier beaten Wood River.

Devils lose NBA shoot-out

Special to the Press-Record

ST. LOUIS — Score over 100 points in a high school basketball game and you expect to win, right? Usually.

But here Friday, Venice High School scored 107 points and lost. St. Louis Central won 125-107. Venice coach Ken Perkins had ideas if trying to slow down the pace of the game early. "I knew Central would run. They have run. And they can do it," said Perkins. "They can get out and move it. Perkins' ideas of a slow-down game quickly vanished. "When I looked up and saw it was 14-4 their favor, I said, 'That's enough of this,' and we started running."

A total of 232 points in a high school basketball game. The NBA does it all the time, but two high school teams hardly ever crack the century mark in the same game. Venice got outstanding performances from the Gardner brother — Donald and Archie — and from Kevin Wigfall. The Gardeners combined for 56 points (Donald with 32, Archie with 24). Wigfall scored 19.

"Donald and Archie did well, very well," said Perkins. "Especially can sidering the kind of game we got into with them."

Can you imagine a high school team getting 40 rebounds and being out-rebounded? That happened. Central had 52 rebounds.

"Central won't let you do anything but run," said Perkins. "That's what they want to do. If you run, they'll let you. That's the kind of game they want. They don't play much defense on you when you're running. But if you try to slow it down, they can play some tough defense then."

The victory raised Central's record to 19-5, while Venice dropped to 12-9. Central's Redwings were led by Darryl Leonard's 29 points.

Trojans wear down Warriors

By PETE HAYES Sports Editor of the Press-Record

MADISON — Kevin Greene had a sheepish look on his face as he left the locker room. His hair still wet, his face still flushed from nearly two hours on the basketball court. His team had just lost, but the blame did not go on his shoulders.

Greene did all he could for this season's post-season Class A (small school) regional tournament at DuPont. Quad Cities schools Madison and Venice are also entered at DuPo.

Lovejoy's enrollment is 88.

Friday action

ball in to the 6'2" jumping-jack forward.

"Three things killed us tonight," he said. "One, we got annihilated on the boards. Two, we didn't have any patience with their press in the second half. And three, we didn't get the ball in to Greene in the second half. I don't know why. But he didn't get the ball."

"It was almost a one-man show for South in the first half. Driving inside like a mule, the twisting and turning Greene had 18 of his team's 38 points. He finished the game with 25.

But Greene had to take second-billing to Patrick Hatter of Madison. Hatter, a 6'2" junior guard-forward, buried the nets for a game-high 32 points, 13 rebounds and had nine assists. "He did play a pretty good game, didn't he?" said a relieved Madison coach Larry Graham.

Graham was worried before the game. His Trojans, ranked first in the latest Press-Record Class A poll, had to play almost flawless basketball to beat South. Graham had said, "It wasn't flawless, but it was successful. I think we were there down in the second half."

"We tried to change our defense to keep them off-guard. When we did that, they missed a few shots, we did, and we got ahead pretty well."

Graham classified the victory as a "big" one. Why?

"My kids feel they have something to prove. South is a Double-A school, and they're a good team. They beat Lovejoy (in the Wood River Tournament). That's something we couldn't do. Madison lost to Lovejoy in the championship game of the DuPo Tournament."

South and Madison traded baskets much of the first half. The Trojans pulled ahead 24-21 at the end of the first quarter, but a Spurt by the Warriors gave South the lead early in the second period.

A drive by Greene gave South a 27-25 lead with 6:35 left in the half. For a basket by Hatter, South's Bill Skinner took a pass from teammate Lee Houbrey and scored from under the basket making it 29-28 South.

A steal and layup by Warrior John Vrenick made it 31-28. After another Madison turnover, Greene scored making it 33-28. After a Madison free throw, Greene scored again to make it 35-29.

That's where the South spurt came to a screeching halt.

High Cougars win over Rivermen

By ROB REHG of the Press-Record

ST. LOUIS — Homecoming for the University of Missouri-St. Louis could have been worse. The game could have been cancelled because of unsavory weather conditions for example.

It was played, however, and about 400 brave souls chose to slush through the gush and the mush only to have their spirits dampened by a 74-44 SIUE-Cougar win.

Things went wrong right from the start for the Rivermen.

Rain started falling during the afternoon, which turned to sleet before becoming snow. The miserable weather resulted in a sparse homecoming crowd.

Then UMSL's leading scorer, Rick Kirby, was scratched from the starting lineup by coach Tom Bartow. The playmaking guard suffered a sprained ankle in practice earlier this month, and although he practiced all week, Bartow decided Kirby wasn't ready for game conditions.

Despite the setbacks, UMSL kept the game close for the first 15 minutes. The Rivermen were seldom able to penetrate the Cougar defense, but sophomore guard William Harris and senior forward Alan De Geare saw a 17-foot jumper with 6:48 left in the half.

UMSL took a 26-25 lead. It would be the final time the Rivermen led SIUE.

Cougar guards Scott Kabbes and Greg Payne combined for 12 points in the final six minutes and SIUE led at the half 43-34.

When UMSL shifted into a man-to-man defense early in the second half, the Cougars countered with a strong inside attack. Cougar forward Tom Schmidt became the benefactor of some fine passing by his teammates and scored 11 second-half points. The Cougars hit eight of their first 11 field goal shots in the second half and streaked to 68-46 lead.

While SIUE was shooting a sizzling 66.8 percent from the field during the second half, the UMSL offense began to sputter as the Rivermen sank just 31.6 percent of their field goals.

A Kirby-less UMSL offense lacked leadership and a constantly changing SIUE defense kept the Rivermen guessing.

"We wanted to do a lot of different things on defense," SIUE coach Jim Dudley said. "We pressed for awhile, used about three different zones and then went into our man-to-man."

"The man-to-man gave them some real problems. I didn't think they did a very good job of attacking our defense."

Fifteen second-half turnovers by the Cougars kept the game from becoming a rout. SIUE held a 17 point lead when it went into a stall with three minutes left in the game.

The problem with the Cougar's stall was that they kept giving the ball up and UMSL scored seven unanswered points in the final minutes to cut the final margin to 10.

The sloppy finish bothered Dudley.

"I wasn't very happy that our guards had 12 second-half turnovers," he said. "We would like to have won by a bigger margin."

Dudley also wasn't too crazy about the start of the game.

"I thought we were really sluggish at the start," he said. "I even felt it in the clubhouse. I don't know if it was the late starting time or that (the game started at 9:05)."

But Dudley thought the Cougars, who evened their record at 11-11, played good ball most of the night. He singled out Payne and Schmidt as keys to the game.

"I think when Greg came off the bench the first half he really picked us up," Dudley said. "They were keying on Scott (Kabbes) at the point so we moved him inside and put Payne on the point. He (Payne) penetrated real well."

"I was glad we got the ball to Schmidt more tonight," Dudley added. He only took three shots in our last game (against Western Illinois University) and we really need more scoring from him."

Jerome Nelson was the game's leading scorer with 18 points for the Cougars, and SIUE center Bill Branz had a solid overall game with 14 points and nine rebounds.

Warriors

North's first 11 points. Page came off the bench in the third quarter to score 12 points, but he was the only Steeler score that period.

Heubner and center James Blasingame were the big scorers for South with 18 and 17 total points respectively. During the third quarter, though, everyone helped out as five different Warriors scored baskets and South took a 48-36 lead, its biggest of the night, with 1:22 to go in the quarter.

Poor foul shooting by South kept North in the game as the Warriors were 3 for 11 from the line the last quarter. Page and forward Keith Burton fouled out early for the Steelers in the final quarter and Ohlendorf said, "It was the only problems were the key to the game."

The pounding North took under the boards also hurt the Steelers, but Ohlendorf is used to that.

"Everybody beats us in rebounding," he said. "We just don't have the size to get the rebounds."

The Warriors rebounded North 40-27 and were particularly effective at grabbing offensive rebounds. Blasingame and Heubner grabbed rebounds from their own shots several times.

"I feel frustrated and sorry for these kids because of the weaknesses they have — like a lack of height which is usually what eats us," Ohlendorf said of his team.

"But I'm very proud of the way they played." South took a five to three advantage in the inter-city rivalry with Saturday night's victory. The warriors upped their record to 8-12 while North slipped to 4-17. The loss meant North finished the year without a conference win this year, going 0-8 in the Gateway East.
